My client printed out these documents so they could be reviewed by my office. I do in fact have paper copies available to be sent to you today via Priority Mail. If however, you refuse to provide a physical location, I certainly will be more than happy to take the additional time required in order to scan each document and send to you in digital format.

Your cooperation is, as always, much appreciated.

Regards,

Ms. Klein,

Don't be silly. Let's pretend it's sometime after 1985 and you send me a download link. If for some completely kooky reason you have in fact printed out all these emails on paper I will come in and make my own electronic copies of them. If this is the case please provide a physical address where the documents may be inspected as required
